

Study in Germany

Why Germany?

Excellence: About 500 German universities offer excellent opportunities for studying and research.

No/ Low Fees: Unlike many other countries, no tuition fees are charged for undergraduate degrees at most of the public universities in Germany.

Career: Studying at a German university could be your first step towards a career in Germany. German companies are looking for university graduates in a variety of sectors – especially in the fields of engineering, medicine, sciences and information technology. A German degree is highly recognized all over the world.

Quality of Life: Germany is famous for its prosperity. If you study here, you will not only find Europe's most dynamic economy. Germany is also a very safe country, with a high standard of living, a rich cultural history and beautiful cities and countryside.

Germany has public and private universities. They are usually divided into universities, universities of applied sciences and colleges of art, film and music. About 95 percent of the universities are financed by the government and are therefore state-funded. Only 5 percent of the institutions of higher education are private universities.

After the US and Great Britain Germany is the most popular location for studying abroad. Every tenth student is an international. In total we have more than 300.000 internationals.

Which University is the right one

Anyone looking to study in Germany is spoiled for choice. There are many different types of universities, all of which provide outstanding quality.

There is no answer you can find via internet- it depends on your profile, your talents and your intention. Which university is the right one for you, we will help you to find out - during your Foundation Year or Language Course.

How to apply?

Anyone wanting to study at a university in Germany needs a so-called "Hochschulzugangsberechtigung" (HZB), or higher education entrance qualification. The HZB you have, if:

You have a Bachelor

You have studied 2/4 semesters

You passed the „Feststellungsprüfung“

If you already have the HZB, you need TestDaF and you need to show that you know, how to study in Germany

Apply for our Language Course in Kiel or Hamburg (9-12 months for beginners)

includes:

- Course fees for the language courses
- Course fees for “scientific work” and “specific relevant content”
- TestDaF preparation course
- Registration fees, exam fees
- Accommodation
- Excursions and trips during the language courses
- Individual support
- Application Service

How to get the HZB - higher education entrance qualification?

If you have a Senior High School Diploma

You need to pass a Feststellungsprüfung=HZB

You need to go a „Studienkolleg“

How to get a seat at a Studienkolleg?

Standard procedure:

- Get your High School Diploma
- Get fluent in German (B2)
- Apply for a seat at a German University from your home country
- Apply for a seat at many Studienkollegs by writing many exams, wait for the results
- Wait another 6 months, because there are not enough seats
- Go to the Studienkolleg for 12 months, pass the Feststellungsprüfung
- Apply for a seat at a University

PSP-program:

- Get your High School Diploma
- Take the test in your home country, get the result immediately
- Get your guaranteed seat at PSP and receive your visa documents in time
- Pass the Feststellungsprüfung after 12 months
- Apply for a seat at a university with aubiko's support
- Start your study course at University
- Become a part of Germany

Takes a long time

Normally prior knowledge of German is a requirement for joining the Studienkolleg (B2), however, we have created a program students with little or no knowledge of German can apply for.

Why? - Because Germany has a big need of qualified people.

How? – Our individual support starts right after the entrance test.

The “Feststellungsprüfung” is an exam by the German State, which is necessary for students from most non-european countries. To prepare for the exam, you will need to complete a Foundation Year (Studienkolleg). If you choose to study engineering you will have lessons in German, Mathematics, Physics, Chemistry (T-courses). For business studies, you will have lessons in German, Mathematics, Economics, Business Studies and English (W-courses).

After passing the “Feststellungsprüfung”, you can apply at all German universities.

How to apply for PSP?

For the PSP you need to take an entrance examination (oral and written).

The test can only be held by a German certified examiner. The next test for Taiwanese applicants will take place in your home country.

How does the test look like:

1. Written test for T and W-courses
2. Interview in English about students motivation
3. German: Students with German will be tested in German and be told which language level they have got.

After the test, each student gets an individual study plan for preparing you best for your PSP.
