On Wednesday, we went to Hamburg. The kids had two hours to go shopping in the famous Mönckebergstraße. Afterwards, we went to see the Musical Aladdin. The kids were extremely excited and even dressed up for the special occasion. Everyone really loved the show, particularly the costumes and the stage design. What a great day!

On Thursday, we went to the Elbstrand, a beautiful beach by the river and the harbour. It felt great to relax a little bit and to spend time by the water. The children played in the sand and marvelled at the giant ships that passed by.

Before the weekend started, we spent a very active day. The children were looking forward to the canoe trip and the bike tour. Initially, canoeing was quite tricky but after a few minutes everyone was able to control the boat and had a lot of fun. Of course, the group was hungry after so many athletic activity and we had our second BBQ party with delicious food, games and dancing.

On Saturday, we went to the Karls Erlebnishof. There, the children could pick strawberries and move freely on the aerial. There were attractions such as a corn maze and a potato bag slide. Moreover, we could learn about the production of candy and had the chance to buy some at the local store. Afterwards, we went to Lübeck and visited the Marienkirche. Then, the children had some free time and at their first Döner Kebab ever – yummy!

On sunny Sunday, we took the train to Travemünde to the beautiful Baltic sea. There, we rented beach chairs and could relax. The children played in the sand and rented pedal boats. After so much sea air we were hungry and prepared a delicious picknick.
